

HONOR

Not something bought or sold, but values passed down through generations. For many years, children and families have received these values from the veterans that support them, and the homeland where they grow.

The VFW, Department of California Foundation is a 501c(3) not-for-profit organization that relies on public donations to support programs that promote citizenship education and volunteerism and facilitate aid for veterans and their families in need of medical, rehabilitative, educational and employment services.

Although the VFW, Department of California Foundation is separate from the VFW, its commitment is the same: improving the lives of veterans and service personnel, their families and their communities.
